Miami, FL – February 05, 2025 – Colonial Metals Group, a market leader in the precious metals industry, is thrilled to announce a strategic media partnership with Patriot.TV, a wholly owned subsidiary of Conservative Broadcast Media & Journalism (OTCPINK:CBMJ), a leading media broadcast platform dedicated to providing truth and freedom narrative content across television, radio, and online platforms. This groundbreaking agreement aims to bolster awareness of Colonial Metals Group's expertise while allowing Patriot.TV's viewers a preferential ability to acquire precious metals, diversifying their savings against economic uncertainty.

Colonial Metals Group, a Florida-based precious metals dealer, specializes in helping clients across the United States diversify their savings with precious metals to safeguard their purchasing power. By facilitating the rollover of a portion of their IRAs or 401(k)s into a Precious Metals IRA—without incurring penalties or taxes—Colonial's clients gain the ability to hold physical metals under their direct control, outside traditional banking or Wall Street systems. This approach allows them to enjoy peace of mind, knowing their financial future is more secure and resilient against economic uncertainties.

Under the terms of this partnership, Paul Stone, CEO of Colonial Metals Group, will join Patriot.TV's 30 show hosts to discuss the current economic environment and the financial risks facing Americans. "We are excited to partner with Patriot.TV. CBMJ's CEO Mark Schafflein and I share a strong belief in the importance of diversification to protect American's savings against the impacts of high inflation and the relentless money printing and dollar devaluation affecting everyday Americans" said Paul Stone, CEO of Colonial Metals Group.

Paul Stone added, "I would also like to extend my gratitude to Patriot.TV host Shannon Joy, with whom I have had a six-year relationship, for introducing me to Patriot.TV."
