Your Submitted Press Release

New York, New York, United States, 11th Apr 2026 — Gemone Diamond, a diamond manufacturer and exporter with its production facility in Surat, Gujarat, India and U.S. operations registered in New York, is marking its 60th year in the diamond industry. As part of this milestone, the company has announced expanded custom diamond cutting services for U.S. customers and a new environmental initiative to plant one tree for every purchase completed through its U.S. platform.

Gemone Diamond manufactures and exports natural and lab-grown diamonds, serving retail and wholesale customers across the United States, the United Kingdom, and Southeast Asia. The company's U.S. customers access certified, custom-cut diamonds directly through its online platform at gemonediamond.com, with all stones independently graded by recognised international laboratories including the International Gemological Institute (IGI) and the Gemological Institute of America (GIA).

Surat, where Gemone Diamond's manufacturing operations are based, accounts for a significant share of the world's diamond cutting and polishing activity, according to industry data. The company traces its origins to the 1960s, when the Sukhadiya family entered the natural diamond trade in Surat. In the early 2000s, Gemone Diamond expanded its production to include lab-grown diamonds. The 2010s saw the launch of its direct-to-U.S. e-commerce operations, which continue to serve American buyers through its New York-registered business.

"As we step into our 60th year, we reflect on six decades of trust built with customers across the United States and beyond," said Ashish Sukhadiya, Chief Executive Officer of Gemone Diamond. "American customers have been ordering custom-cut, certified diamonds directly from our Surat workshop through our New York operations. This milestone reflects the relationships we have built over those decades."

As part of its 60th year milestones, Gemone Diamond has announced plans to launch interactive custom design tools on its website and a short-form video series documenting the production process inside its Surat workshop. These initiatives are intended to provide U.S. customers with greater visibility into the manufacturing process.

As part of its social responsibility programme, Gemone Diamond directs a portion of revenue toward non-governmental organisations providing shelter, food, and essential services to families in Gujarat. The company also supports local education and healthcare initiatives in the communities where its craftspeople live and work. As part of this milestone, Gemone Diamond has committed to planting one tree for every purchase made through its U.S. platform.

Every diamond sold through Gemone Diamond is independently certified. Customers can view current collections and submit custom orders directly through gemonediamond.com.
