Your Submitted Press Release

IPO Genie ($IPO) recently detailed a new suite of business-to-business infrastructure solutions designed to support institutional venture capital tokenization. The platform targets venture firms, investment groups, and structured capital entities that issue, manage, and administer tokenized ownership interests in private companies through a unified digital framework.

The platform delivers tokenized venture capital infrastructure that integrates investment structuring, ownership tracking, governance controls, and operational workflows into a single system. IPO Genie designed the solution to address structural constraints in traditional private markets, including limited liquidity, complex fund administration, and fragmented compliance processes.

IPO Genie enables institutions to structure private market investments as tokenized assets, with ownership records, allocations, and distributions recorded on-chain. The platform maintains a single, auditable system of record intended to support operational clarity and standardized reporting across investment vehicles. Tokenized interests operate under predefined rules governing transferability, governance rights, and lifecycle management.

A central component of the B2B offering is IPO Genie's Fund-as-a-Service framework, which enables qualified organizations to launch tokenized investment vehicles without building their own legal, technical, or administrative infrastructure. Through standardized modules, institutions manage capital deployment, portfolio monitoring, and investor records while maintaining internal decision-making authority.

"Institutions need infrastructure that respects existing venture capital structures while modernizing how ownership and liquidity operate," said a spokesperson for IPO Genie. "We built this platform to function as an operational layer, one that enables tokenization without changing how firms evaluate, govern, or manage private investments."

Platform Architecture And Compliance Framework

The platform embeds compliance and governance controls directly into its architecture. IPO Genie supports region-adaptive onboarding workflows, role-based permissions, and multi-signature authorization for protocol-level actions. Transaction histories and ownership changes remain visible through on-chain records, supporting auditability and internal oversight without reliance on disconnected systems.

IPO Genie also provides secondary liquidity infrastructure designed for tokenized venture positions. The platform supports controlled transfer mechanisms that allow institutions to manage position movement without traditional exit timelines. This structure operates within extended lock-up periods common in venture capital while allowing controlled transfer conditions.

To support ongoing portfolio oversight, the platform integrates data verification and monitoring systems that track company milestones, governance activity, and tokenized ownership changes. These tools provide continuous operational visibility rather than point-in-time reporting, allowing institutions to monitor portfolio status throughout an investment's lifecycle.

IPO Genie positions its B2B solutions as infrastructure-first, focusing on technology, alignment with compliance, and operational execution rather than investment selection. Institutions retain full control over deal sourcing, diligence, and capital allocation while using the platform to efficiently administer tokenized structures.

The platform's design supports venture capital firms, syndicates, and structured investment groups seeking to adapt private market operations to tokenized investment structures through tokenization while maintaining institutional controls and standardized processes.
