Madrid will host an international gathering of distinguished business leaders on 16 May 2026 as the Best CEO Awards 2026 takes place at the Mandarin Oriental Ritz. Set in the historic center of the Spanish capital, the event will convene executives from across multiple continents whose leadership achievements have positioned them among notable figures in the global business landscape.

The ceremony will unfold under the theme the old money in the new world, a concept reflecting the intersection between traditional values of long term business stewardship and the modern entrepreneurial forces reshaping the global economy. The event highlights leadership capable of balancing strategic heritage with innovation, growth, and international expansion.

The Mandarin Oriental Ritz stands among the most prestigious luxury venues in Europe. Known for hosting diplomatic gatherings, international cultural events, and high level business occasions, the historic hotel provides a setting that reflects the prestige associated with global executive leadership. Within its renowned halls, invited guests will attend a formal black tie evening designed to celebrate excellence in corporate leadership.

Events of this nature represent more than ceremonial recognition. They serve as meeting points for leaders operating across international markets, bringing together executives whose organizations influence sectors ranging from technology and manufacturing to consulting, finance, real estate development, architecture, and legal services.

Ahead of the ceremony, several names have been revealed as among the pre announced finalists for the Best CEO Awards 2026. These individuals represent a diverse cross section of international leadership and entrepreneurial achievement.

Among the pre announced finalists are Mario Matias Sebely, Thomas Philip Brunney, Fernando Manjarin, Vanessa Idada, Juan Carlos Fernandez Mercado, Mahdi Rahman, Ana Cristina Correa Cervera, Ivan Cancino, Antonio Eduardo Botello Juarez, Gabriel Jimenez, Francisco Javier Toussaint Parrodi, Tino Pellizzeri, Moyn Islam, Jose Luis Soto Belloso, Carla Mariana Gagliardi Presta, Rebecca Arippol, Andres Deya, Matias Castrillon, Juan Jorge Valenzuela Valdez, Claudio Totaro, Bankim Chandra, Angeles De la Cerda, Virginia Terceros, Fabio Ostroviecki, Maria Sztachel, Cesare De Stefano, David Flores, Juan Camilo Vivas Ocampo, Andrea Palacios, Eliana Cabrera Ovando, Mario Zamora, Piero Bardellini, Misha Emanuilov, Franco Luca, Enrique Arquer Badenas, Javier Salinas, Marinela Marku, Anita Asani, Lionel Martin, Maria Paula Bello, Jose Roberto Salinas Padilla.

The motivations behind each potential recognition will remain confidential until the evening of the ceremony. The official announcements and the detailed reasons for each award will be revealed only during the event itself, maintaining the anticipation surrounding the final recognition of executive excellence.

A defining characteristic of the Best CEO Awards is the rigorous evaluation framework applied during the selection process. Participation is not determined through open public submissions or popularity metrics. Instead, candidates undergo a structured assessment designed to evaluate measurable leadership performance across multiple dimensions.

Executives are reviewed based on indicators such as company growth, strategic innovation, operational leadership, team development, and measurable market influence. Governance standards, ethical leadership practices, and the long term sustainability of the organizations under their direction are also considered within the evaluation process.

This multi dimensional review ensures that the awards remain grounded in objective leadership achievements and verifiable corporate results. By focusing on measurable impact rather than symbolic recognition alone, the initiative aims to maintain credibility among global executives, investors, and institutional observers.

Within the broader landscape of international business culture, ceremonies that highlight executive leadership have become important platforms for recognizing individuals capable of shaping markets and guiding organizations through complex economic environments.

As the Best CEO Awards 2026 approaches, the Mandarin Oriental Ritz prepares to host an evening that reflects the evolving nature of global leadership. Against the backdrop of one of Europe's most celebrated luxury venues, the ceremony will bring together executives whose influence continues to shape companies, industries, and markets across the world.
