Your Submitted Press Release

Dover, Delaware, United States, 9th Sep 2025 - Tapayz, a fintech company specializing in cryptocurrency payment solutions, is expanding the range of digital assets supported on its debit cards for users in East Asian markets. This expansion includes a variety of cryptocurrencies and other digital assets, offering increased spending options for cardholders.

Market Context and Adoption

The adoption of cryptocurrency debit cards is growing as these products allow users to spend digital assets at traditional merchants and ATMs that operate on established payment networks like Mastercard.

Key drivers of this market growth include the increasing use of cryptocurrencies as a tool to overcome financial instability in some regions, such as parts of Southeast Asia and Africa. Additionally, the gaming industry is seeing increased adoption due to the ability of cryptocurrency payments to address issues with cross-border payments and settlement delays.

Tapayz Card Features

Tapayz cards aim to provide real-time price protection by loading cryptocurrencies at their current market rates, which can help mitigate the impact of price fluctuations after conversion. The cards operate on the Mastercard network, enabling global transactions and cash withdrawals. The platform allows users to manage multiple digital assets on a single card, consolidating their payment solutions.

Supported Cryptocurrencies

Tapayz cardholders in East Asian markets can now load multiple digital assets onto their cards. Supported cryptocurrencies include major coins such as Bitcoin and Ethereum, as well as stablecoins like Tether (USDT) and USD Coin (USDC), and region-specific coins like Trot Token. This expansion aligns with the growing demand for diverse cryptocurrency spending options among users.

About Tapayz

Headquartered in New York, USA, Tapayz is a fintech company that provides cryptocurrency payment services and debit card issuance. The company's mission is to establish a global decentralized payment standard that offers secure and fast financial services without economic barriers.
